low the announcement is made that trict Attorney C. L. V. Acheson stand for re-nomination. This, s said will bring out another can-ate, in the person of T. H. W. Fer-, who is assistant to Mr. Acheson. ile it has not been practiced, it been desired to have the office of trict attorney passed along after term in order to give young at-neys a chance. For this reason position of assistant district at-ney was supposed to be a stepping ne for the nomination after the in-mbent had served one term. This cedure, however, is not likely to low this time, as with an open field y candidate has an opportunity to cure the nomination.

The Keystone following, which led the vote for Governor in the county st year, is "laying low." It is arged that certain elements in the epublican party have effected a mbination, and it will depend on w much of this sate is nominated hether or not the Keystone party il be reorganized. If a fair propor-on of the independent Republican ndidates win ,the Keystone element ay not take a hand; but if the al-ged slate wins it is asserted at a fusion will be effected ith the Democrats for the fight at he November election.

MINERS MUCH INTERESTED

Owing to the fact that President John T. White of the United Mine Workers of America, could not be present on the day set for the miners' picnic at Eldora park, June 28, the affair will be held two days earlier, June 26. A telegram received yesterday at miners' quarters, stated that President White would be on hand June 26, as would national Vice President Frank J. Hayes. The picnic is held under the auspices of the miners of Monongahela and vicinity.

On June 24 an outing under the auspices of the miners of Belle Vernon and vicinity will be held at Belle Vernon and both President White and Vice President Hayes will attend.

WILL OBSERVE USUAL SUMMER SHUTDOWN

Imperial Works Will Close Busy Glass Manufacturing Period First of July--to Operate Machines

PICNIC AND OUTING TO BE HELD BY LOCAL UNION

To observe the usual summer vacation period of two months the hand shops of the Imperial Bottle works will be suspended on July 1. On that same date the Green Bottle Blowers Association will hold their annual picnic.

The Imperial factory has been operating steadily during the past year and the close of the ten months period will witness the completion of a busy season in glass botle manufacture. To keep up with the trade four or five machines will be run during the summer, the same as was done last year.

To arange for the worker's picnic, Isaac Kindell and Joseph Shorthall have been appointed general managers Others on arrangements are Joseph Riddle, Henry Wagner and George Arnold. Albert Duwell has been elected a delegate to the Bottle convention to be held at Columbus during the summer.

BENTLEYVILLE GETS NEXT MEETING

Epworth League Decides Important Matter in Closing Session

LOCAL DELEGATES RETURN

Local delegates have returned from the annual convention of the Washington county district of the Epworth League at Wellsburg, W. Va., and report a remarkably good session. The next convention will be held at Bentleyville. Last year when the convention was held in Charleroi, Bentleyville contested with Wellsburg to get the convention. J. C. Mace of Wellsburg, was elected the next district president. Local delegates to the convention were Misses Ora Kistler, Florence Crill, Winifred Martin, and Vida Goehring and Samuel Cheshure. Miss Crill is remaining in Wellsburg for a few days to visit Rev. and Mrs. A. M. Doak, formerly of Charleroi.

GIRL IS AIDED BY COMMITTEE

Erma Johnson, a 16-year-old girl from Fayette City, was arrested by Chief of Police Albright Thursday evening and at the instance of the local Juvenile Court committee was taken to the detention room at Washington. The girl, who was working in town as a domestic, was charged with immoral conduct, to which she confessed. The Juvenile Court committee did not want to keep her in the lockup over night, and so engaged Constable Stablein to take her over to Washington late last night. As soon as the arrest was made commitment papers were made out and in less than two hours the constable was on his way to Washington with the girl, who will likely be committed by the court to the industrial training school at Morganza or some other institution. Her case was one of the most degrading ones of the kind that has come to the notice of the officials.

In his charge to the constables of the county and the grand jury this week, Judge Umbel of Fayette county called atention to complaints of the alleged abuses of their privileges by clubs and directed a close inquiry into the practices of all clubs in the county. The constables are directed to enter all club rooms inquire as to their disposal of liquor, the amount of business done, the stock on hond, the empties, etc. In case of disposition on the part of the club to refuse information this is to be taken as justifying the belief that the law is being violated.

BROWNSVILLE CONDITIONS

Information received this morning from an apparently authentic source was to the effect that the strike of shopmen along the Monongahela division P. R. R. will be terminated shortly and the shopmen will return to work. It is stated that there will be little change in conditions. Already it is stated a number of men are back at work in shops around Pittsburg. Some of the men who worked at the Thirteenth street shops have been transferred to Pitcairn and other transfers have been made, it is stated in the compromise. At West Brownsville the strike is still in force. There has been no recurrence of the trouble of last Sunday morning. Sheriff John C. Murphy, of Washington, is keeping a watchful eye on matters there.

SNUG SUM FOR BENEFIT

Affair Wednesday at Baseball Park Brings in Large Amount

Indications are that a snug sum will be realized for the Charleroi playgrounds as a result of the benefit Wednesday evening at the local baseball park, according to a statement made this morning by a member of the playgrounds committee. The playground will be fitted up next week the opening being planned for Tuesday, June 20.

While the benefit Wednesday occasioned some surprise, it nevertheless answered the purpose. The Bloomer Girls were widely advertised to appear and play a local picked baseball team, but when they arrived it was found that the "girls" was nothing more than local young men attired in burlesque. An immense crowd was present.

W. A. Swick, a member of the High School faculty has been elected as instructor at the playgrounds and James Evans has been chosen by the committee to care for the grounds. There is considerable equipment owned, having been purchased previous to this year.

The playgrounds will be situated in the "Pines" and may be made a permanent institution. Council has appropriated $300 to be used in their maintenance, $100 of which was voted to be used as soon as desired. It is expected the school board will donate a similar sum. With other sums in the hands of the treasurer derived from benefits and other sources, Charleroi children are promised a playground worth while.

TELEPHONE IN USE ON THE P. & L. E.

Telegraph Supplanted by New System Between McKeesport and Brownsville.

The Pittsburg and Lake Erie Railroad will soon be using the telephone instead of the telegraph for dispatching trains on two of its divisions extending from McKeesport to Brownsville, 40 miles, and from McKeesport to Connellsville, 43 miles. The dispatcher for both these circuits will be been placed with the Western Electric company for 15 selectors and the located at McKeesport. An order has necessary telephones and auxiliary apparatus to equip these circuits.

The telephone method of handling train movements has been found just as safe and efficient as the telegraph, and much quicker. It is now being used on nearly 50,000 miles of railroad which once used the telegraph exclusively for this service.

ONLY ONE WAY.

In reply to a recent editorial in the Mail making a few comments on the general principals of Socialism as popularly understood as a political party organization, a writer in this issue takes exceptions to the comment, and propounds a few questions. Taking the ground—which is a mistken one, and not borne out by actual conditions that the individual has na opportunities—he says:

"What incentive for thrift has the 600,000 coal miners of this nation? Can they expect to own a mine? What incentive for thrift has the 2,000,000 who labor an the railroads? Can they expect to own a railway? What incentive for thrift has the 5,000,000 who work in our mills and factories; the 2,000,000 farmers who own no farms?* * *I ask what incentive for thrift has these millions got who cannot escape their slavery individually."

Without entering into a general discusion of the subject which time and space prevents, we will say that while a railway employe may not expect to own a railway, it is possible for him to own what any one else does in these institutions—stocks and bonds, as ro thousands of employes of the Pennsylvania, the New York Central and other strong systems. Thousands of employes can and do invest their savings in the railways and big industrial concerns in which they work, mines as well as mills, and draw their dividends the same in proportion as the largest stockholders. Their pro rata depends entirely upon their thrift their self-denial and the sacrifices they are willing to make, which is the source of all material wealth and cap-since the foundation of the world when expert, capable and efficient workmen were so much in demand, nor so hard to get. In this coal mining district there are times when there are not enough capable mine and fire bosses and superintendents—men who have developed their possible technical skill and combined it with the mental qualifications of executive ability and intelligent direction. In the big mills experts are always in demand—bosses who can produce and superintendents and heads of departments. In these days of free schools and opportunities for self-improvement, every young man who starts out in life dependent upon his own resources has the world at his command. It is up to him to take advantage of the opportunities which knock at every door—if he but will. There are plenty of examples on every hand—John H. and David Jones, of the Pittsburg-Buffalo Coal company who yielded pick and shovel themselves, and George Nash of the Pittsburg Steel company at Monessen, graduate of the cinder pile and the school of hard knocks.

Capital is self-sacrifice, and all capital employed in every business concern big, or little is money earned and saved through self-sacrifice and not spent for the ephemeral pleasures of the day. The man who does not limit his productive capacities, but denies himself and saves his earnings, accumulates capital that will eventually bring him independence and a competence. This is possible for the great majority of people if they but choose. If they choose otherwise, effect follows cause as inevitably as the night the day. Until every individual can realize these principles of social economy and put them into practice, Socialism as preached by the present propaganda must remain a chimerical dream. There is but one way to produce capital, and there is no copyright or patent on the process.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

It is related of one of the Charleroi Church League pitchers that one time he went over to Belle Vernon to pitch a game for a team in that town. When the first man up to bat faced the pitcher the catcher signaled for a high fast ball, but the twirler shook his head. A signal was given for an out curve but this, too, was negatived. The catcher then signaled for an inshoot, but the king of the mound most positively shook his head. A signal for a drop met with the same response

"For the Lord's sake!" exclaimed the umpire, who stood behind the pitcher, and was an interested spectator of the various signals, "how many kind of balls do you have at your command?"

"I've got more curves," the pitcher retorted, "than the catcher has fingers to signal with."

A Charleroi student, who is attending a Pittsburg institution of learning, tells how one of his classmates was translating in a German recitation a few days ago. The subject was a narrative about a young conscript bidding his family and sweetheart adieu previous to departing for the wars. The boy in the class had stumbled through the lesson more or less laborously. Finally he drawled out, picking his words carefully in making the translation:

"I put my arms around her"—and then stopped suddenly.

"That's as far as I got, Professor," said the boy, meaning in his translation.

"I think that was far enough," replied the professor with a smile, much to the student's confusion.

THE PROPAGANDS OF SOCIALISTS

Leroy R. Bruce Writes Concerning Policies of Party

To the Editor of the Charleroi Mail:

Sir—My attention was called to an editorial in your paper in the issue of Saturday, May 27, 1911 entitled Socialism. Being a student of the philosophy of socialism I was somewhat surprised as to what your conception of socialism was. But my understanding of socialism being entirely different from yours and to get a better understanding as to the source from which you have gained your knowledge of socialism, I beg to ask you a few questions:

Is the rank and file or the Socialist Party made up of those on whom the ills and misfortunes of life press heavily? I answer in the negative. Let us see. According to data collected by the National Secretary of the Socialist party its membership is made up of those who work at the following occupations: Craftsman, 41 per cent; laborers, 20 per cent; farmers, 17 per cent; commerce 9 per cent; transportation 5 per cent; professional 5 per cent; housewives 3 per cent. Now I want to ask you is the membership of the Republican or Democrat parties made up any less of those on whom the ills and misfortunes of life press heavily?

Yes, Socialism is a message of freedom to those thousands who toil hopelessly for others with no pleasure in the present or hope in the future. As in their collective capacity they would own the means by which they live, for socialism in a concrete definitation simply means the public ownership of all the means of production and distribution that are socially used to be democratically managed. No less a personage than Shakespeare understood it in his day when he said: "He who owns the means by which I live owns me." Can this truthfully be denied today?

Again may I ask, what tenet of Socialism has a tendency to maintain a dead level? Has Uncle Sam reduced everybody to a dead level on the Panama canal? Is all the children in our public schools reduced to a dead level? As far as our public schools are concerned they have equal opportunity of acquiring an education which does not make them equal or reduce them to a dead level. And surely the incentive to learn is not destroyed because our schools are pubically owned. Neither will social ownership of the land and machinery that is socially used and essential to the welfare of society with an equal opportunity for all to use same maintain a dead level. Private ownership of these same things has reduced thousands, yes, millions, to a dead level. What incentive for thrift has the 600,000 coal miners of this nation who toil in inky darkness producing a commodity which without it we are thrown back into the laborious poverty of early times, receiving hardly a subsistence wage for doing same? Can they expecvt to own a mine? What incentive for thrift has the 2,000,000 who labor on the railroads of this nation? Can they expect to own a railroad? What incentive for thrift has the 5,000,000 who work in our mills and factories; the 2,000,000 farmers who own no farms; thousands who work in the big department stores and mail order houses; 4,000,000 who are out of work; no less than 300,000 of our girls who are forced to sell their virtue for bread? Yes, I ask what incentive for thrift has these millions got who cannot escape their slavery individually. Will socialism destroy these millions of our people's incentive for thrift when it will make them masters of their own destiny by freeing them from their economic servitude?

Yes the only hope fo these millions of toilers is for them to collectively own the tools and machinery they use then they can produce wealth in abundance for themselves and not for a few bond holders and coupon clippers.

About the only incentive there is in this day of big trusts is to be a flunkey for the corporations which I am glad to say is getting very distasteful to those who love honesty and some liberty. Socialism is not against private property that is privately used such as your home or automobile, clothes, or your tooth brush. In fact, it will make it possible for millions to privately own their homes for the first time as only 26 per cent of the people own their homes in this State. Socialism is no dream, no Utopia, but a science that teaches of all the phases of human life. You should study it even to fight it if you are opposed to it. But erectiug a straw man, labeling it socialism then proceeding to tear it to pieces will not destroy it.

Respectfully,

LEROY R. BRUCE.

PETER PINDAR'S RUSE.

Enabled the Astute Author to Drive a Good Bargain.

Some time about the beginning of the nineteenth century Peter Pindar (Dr. John Wolcott) drove a good bargain with the publishers, Robinson & Walker. While negotiations were under way the author dereloped an attack of asthma, which was always at its most distressing stage whenever the publishers were present. He was only forty-seven then, but the publishers decided that their chances were good and agreed to pay him a annuity of £50 instead of a lump sum for his work.

Soon after the bond was signed the doctor went to Cornwall, where he recovered his health, and returned to London without any cough, which was far from being a pleasing sight to the persons who had to pay his annuity. One day he called upon Mr. Walker, the manager for the parties, who, surveying him with a scrutinizing eye, asked him how he did. "Much better, thank you," said Wolcott. "I have taken the measure of my asthma: the fellow is troublesome, but I know his strength and am his master." "Oh!" said Mr. Walker gravely, and turned into an adjoining room, where Mrs. Walker, a prudent woman, had been listening to the conversation. Wolcott, aware of the feeling, paid a keen attention to the husband and wife and heard the latter exclaim: "There, now, didn't I tell you he wouldn't die? Fool that you've been! I knew he wouldn't die."

Peter Pindar survived both the partners.—New York Post.

Spider Thread Clothes.

In the thread of the spider lies dormant a great industry once it is properly studied. Numerous attempts have been made to utilize the threads for cloth to make clothes, etc. All have been so far doomed to failure—anyhow, as a financial proposition. It is related that Louis XIV. had a dress made from spider's web which was so fragile that he became disgusted with it. The entomologist D'Orbigny had made for himself a pair of trousers from the webs of tropical spiders, which lasted for a long time.—Popular Magazine.

When Coffee Was Unpopular.

Coffee was introduced into England in 1652 and within the next ten years became the fashionable drink of London. A few years later, however, in 1663, there was a great uprising against the "oriental beverage of hades." It was satirised on every hand, the bitterest invectives coming from the pulpit. One leading minister characterized it as "the sirup of soot mixed with the essence of old shoes," and another declared that it was "a poison which God had made black that it might bear the devil's own color." This bitter crusade soon were itself out, and by the time of Charles II. coffee houses were known in every village in the land.

Von Weber's Last Portrait.

A strange memorial of a famous man was among the possessions of George Augustus Sala. He tells of it in "My Life and Adventures:"

My mother prior to her widowhood had known Von Weber during his visit to London in 1826. He was a frequent visitor to our house in New street, and I have a water color drawing of the illustrious German composer in a dark dressing gown, sitting in a large pink and white striped covered fauteuil, his head sunk on his breast and looking desperately ill. Beneath is the inscription, "Alas, poor Karl Maria!" The artist [illegible] took [illegible] in London of consumption on the 5th of June in the year named.

The Premier Perfume.

Most of our perfumes come from flowers or are made in imitation of the scent of flowers, so that attar of roses, by common consent, ranks at the head of the list of perfumes. Other preparations from roses, too, hold a high place and have long been esteemed. Rosewater is historic. When Saladin entered Jerusalem in the twelfth century he had the walls of the mosque of Omar washed with it. But attar of or of roses is by far the most precious and the most prized of all. An eastern prince will present to an honored guest rich jewels, rubies and diamonds and then add, as the rarest of all, a crystal bottle filled with this essence.

Over-Worked Girls

Read What This Girl Says:

Appleton, Wis.—"I take pleasure in writing you an account of my sickness. I told a friend of mine how I felt and she said I had female trouble and advised me to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as she had taken it herself for the same trouble with wonderful results. I had been sickly for two years and overworked myself, and had such bad feelings every month that I could hardly walk for pain. I was very nervous and easily tired out and could not sleep nights. I had dizzy spells, and pimples came on my face. But I have taken your Vegetable Compound and I am entirely cured. I think it is the best medicine in existence."—Miss Cecilia M. Bauer, 1161 Lawrence St., Appleton, Wis.

THIS GIRL SAYS IT IS WOMAN'S BEST FRIEND:

Chicago, Ill.—"Your Compound cured all my troubles and I am feeling strong and happy and able to work now. Wherever I go I shall praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as I think it is woman's best friend. I have told all my friends the good it has done me."—Miss Maggie Isbauer, 2418 So. Whipple Street, Chicago, Illinois.

Lorimor, Iowa.—"I had a heavy cold in the spring and got all run down and was irregular. I had no strength and had bearing down pains in my sides and back, and was very nervous and excitable. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I am all right again, and stronger than before."—Miss I. E. Williams, Lorimor, Iowa.

Is it not reasonable to suppose that a medicine that did so much for these girls will benefit any other girl who is suffering with the same troubles?

Does it not seem the only sensible thing to give such a medicine at least a trial? You may be sure that it can do you no harm, and there is lots of proof that it will do you much good.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health free of charge. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

PURE FOOD LABELS.

They Were Used in Palestine as Early as the Year 850 B. C.

Professor George A. Reisner of Harvard university discovered among some specimens of earliest Hebrew writing in the excavations of the city of Samaria, in Palestine, a most interesting record of the first pure food laws in history. He also found ancient writings dealing with the first instance on record of the keeping of wines in a government warehouse under bond.

Dating back to the period of King Ahab, 850 B. C., these inscriptions are considered to be one of the greatest finds of the Harvard Palestinian expeditions which delved into the city of Ahab and Omri for three years. They found labels on wine and oil jars. These mention the year in which the wine was laid down in the cellars of the palace storehouse, and they state the vineyard from which the wine came, important facts that are recognized equally well by vintners today.

On the oil jars the label runs, "A jar of pure oil," with the mention of the district from which the oil came. The bits of pottery on which the descriptions were written were not parts of the jars, but were evidently intended to be attached to the necks of the receptacles, just as are labels or seals at the present time.—New York World.

WOOL, SILK AND LINEN.

Tests That Will Determine the Quality of the Fabrics.

If you wish to find out whether the material sold to you as all wool or all silk is really so make a 5 per cent solution of caustic potash and in this boil your sample of silk or wool. If the entire sample is consumed in t boiling your material is what it p tends to be; if there is a residue tl residue is cotton. The caustic soluti consumes the animal fibers.

If you wish to find out whether the silk that seems to be heavy silk is weighted with mineral burn the sample and the ash will show you how much mineral weighting there is. The pure silk will be wholly consumed.

In buying supposed linen goods of toweling or suiting, dip your sample into concentrated sulphuric acid for two minutes and wash it out carefully. The cotton will have been consumed, the linen will have resisted the action of the acid. This test is one that should be made with precaution, as vitriol is not a thing to be tampered with.—Mary Heaton Vorse in Success Magazine.

Right and Wrong Exercise.

The word "exercise" covers a multitude of sins. It is a very loose term used for any form of physical exertion, be it sweeping out a factory, walking home from the office or lifting dumbbells. To say "Exercise is beneficial" is a very inaccurate remark and a very dangerous belief. It is necessary to distinguish between right and wrong exercise. As often as not big muscles in arms, chest or legs are a calamity, for they actually shorten life unless the vital organs are proportionately developed to take care of them. Men are constantly wearing out their hearts and arteries with some form of violent work they call "exercise." If continued they would die of arteriosclerosis. A pretty good general rule for these men to go by is to take no form of exercise after they are grown up that they cannot keep on with until they are old men.—J. Edmund Thompson in National Magazine.

Catch the Idea?

Byron in an Ugly Mood.

I have not yet read Byron's "Conversations," but there was an anecdote in one of the extracts which confirms what I heard long since, but which I could not depend on before. He had an aversion to see women eat. Colonel —— was at Byron's house in Piccadilly. Lady Byron in the room, and luncheon was brought in—veal cutlets, etc. She began eating. Byron turned around in disgust and said, "Germanizing beast!" and, taking up the tray, threw the whole luncheon into the hall. Lady Byron cried and left the room.—Told by Haydon, the Painter.

He'd Have Revenge.

Juggins—Who was it that said if he could make the songs of the people he wouldn't care who made the laws? Muggins—Don't know. But if he's the chap who's making the songs of the people nowadays I'd just like to have the making of the laws a little while. That's all.—Red Hen.

Doubt or Dyspepsia.

Scott—The difference between a poor man and a millionaire— Mott—Yes, I know all about it. One worries over his next meal and the other over his last.—Exchange.

Up to Them.

Newedd (showing house)—This is the place we're to live in. My father-in-law furnished it. Friend—Furnished it? Why, I don't see so much as a kitchen chair. Newedd—You don't understand. He furnished the house, but he expects me to furnish the furniture.—Boston Transcript.

Surgery. "Painless Charity."

The surgery of a not remote past was idically different from the practice f today and fell little short of actual rture of the patient. Burning the wered veins with hot irons to stop eeding, opening gaping wounds wider promote long continued suppuration, serting tents and compresses between e gaping lips of wounds to prevent aling by first intention, filling gun- ot wounds with boiling oil, etc., to unteract the supposed poisonous aracter of missiles propelled by gun- owder—with a host of salves, oint- ents and similar medicaments, it was ot until late in the nineteenth cen- ry that military surgery became the othing, beneficent, almost painless arity of today.—National Magazine.

Early Roman Laws.

The very earliest Roman laws were those contained in the so called "Papirian code," but of these but little is known. The next in order are those of the twelve tablets, compiled by the Decemvirs at the beginning of the fourth century of the city's history, about B. C. 350. These famous laws consisted of a revision of the then existing laws, with some new ones which, according to tradition, had been imported from Greece by three commissioners who had been sent to Athens for the purpose of collecting such laws and customs as might be useful to the people of Rome. The new code, when completed, was engraved on twelve tablets of ivory or brass and set up in public.

A Joke and a Law.

Tradition is that the habeas corpus act was put on the English statute books as the outcome of a joke at the expense of a bulky lord. It was in the final division in the house of lords, and Lord Grey and Lord Norris were appointed tellers. Lord Norris was not attentive to his duties, and when a very fat lord came in Lord Grey counted the obese person for ten, at first as a joke; but, seeing Lord Norris had not observed, the other noble lord went on with the miscount. By that means, says Bishop Burnet, a sufficient number of votes was secured, and the bill was passed. Long afterward the American colonists took over the act from England.

Fun Under Fire.

"One of the characteristics of my old comrade Amos Stillman, Company A, Twenty third Massachusetts volunteers, was bravery in actual fighting service," said the old soldier. "Another characteristic was a sense of humor which stood him in good stead even in the face of danger and contributed not a little to the gayety of his comrades. At the battle of Cold Harbor, just before making the charge and while under the Confederate fire, our corporal, who was over six feet tall and scarcely bigger round than a gun barrel, became excited as the enemy's bullets plowed up the earth about him.

"'What kind of place is this to keep a man in?' he demanded. 'Absolutely without protection!'

"He had no more than spoken when Private Stillman stuck his ramrod in the ground.

"'Here, corporal,' said he; 'get behind this.'"—Youth's Companion.

Twist of the Pretzel.

The pretzel is capable of infinite possibilities in the matter of shape. It shows almost as many forms as do the leaves of trees. The construction of the pretzel may be not inaptly described in sailor terms. Its peculiar shape is attained in this way: A bight is taken in a roll of dough, and the ends are given a half twist and brought back upon the opposite sides of the bight. This process gives to the pretzel a heart shaped appearance, but no one ever ventured to hint that any sentimental reason existed for assigning this shape to such a prosaic thing as a pretzel. When the pretzel has been duly "varnished" it is subjected to a process of salting, and the thing is complete.—Harper's.

Local Firm Will Continue Valuable Agencey.

Piper Bros of this city have just closed a deal whereby they will continue to be agents for Zemo—the well known remedy for Eczema, Dandruff, and all diseases of the skin and scalp.

The extraordinary leap that this clean liquid external treatment for skin affections has made into public favor in the last few years proves its wonderful curative properties and makes it indeed a valuable addition to the fine stock of remedial agents carried by Piper Bros.

They have a limited supply os samples one of which will be given free to any skin sufferer who wishes to test the merit of the medicine. A booklet "How To Preserve The Skin," will also be given to those interested.

A Game of Catch.

Somebody once twitted John Graham on the way David Dudley Field and he were drifting apart, he remaining in the harness as a criminal lawyer, while Field was selected by his state for the exalted duty of codifying her laws.

"It is simply a game of catch between Field and myself," he answered. "He tries to put up as many bars as possible, all uniformly strong. Then I go around and try them and see how many weak ones I can find."

"Which beats, Mr. Graham?" he was asked.

"Oh, I think I do in the long run," he responded. "Field never succeeded in keeping me out as many times as I have succeeded in breaking in."

Hard to Find.

Two things in life that are hardest to find are a needle in a haystack and a self-made man who is dissatisfied with his job.—Philadelphia Record.

How Cloves Are Cultivated.

Cloves are now cultivated in many tropical regions. A clove tree begins to bear at the age of ten years and continues until it reaches the age of seventy-five years. There are two crops a year, one in June and another in December. The tree is an evergreen and grows from forty to fifty feet high, with large oblong leaves and crimson flowers at the end of small branches in clusters of from ten to twenty. The tree belongs to the same botanical order as the guava. The cloves, which are the undeveloped buds, are at first white, then light green and at the time of gathering bright red. Pieces of white cloth are spread under the trees at harvesting time, and the branches are beaten gently with bamboo sticks until the cloves drop. They are dried in the sun, being tossed about daily until they attain the rich dark color that proclaims them ready for shipment.—Harper's Weekly.

An Embarrassing Situation.

A young man fresh from the varsity, where he had excelled in athletics, presented himself for ordination. The bishop, as was his custom, entertained the candidates at the palace, and after dinner the usual informal evening party took place. At this function the young man referred to entered into conversation with an affable gentleman in clerical attire whom he found standing in leisurely fashion just within the drawing room door. "Who's that rather scrumptious looking girl on the sofa?" said he. "She's my wife," replied the affable cleric, with an amused smile. The young candidate was silenced for a moment, then he stammered: "I am sure I beg ten thousand pardons! I thought she was the bishop's daughter." "So she is," was the quiet rejoinder, "and I'm his lordship's domestic chaplain."

The Secret Test.

"How," the president of the Fat Man's club was asked, "did you prevent fraud among your applicants for membership? Didn't some men try to get in that weren't up to the standard weight?"

"Yes," the portly officer replied, "but it was no use. Applications had to be presented in person at the Polk building, fifth floor. There was no elevator. The applicant climbed the five flights of stairs.

"At the top he met a man who asked, 'Were you looking for the Fat Man's club?'

"'Yes.'

"'The main office is on the first floor,' the man said. 'Your application is rejected. We receive no man who can climb five flights of stairs.'"—Youth's Companion.

Girls of Andalusia.

Andalusian girls are, as a rule, singularly graceful, with small hands and feet. Their complexions are pale with the exception of those who live by the sea or in mountain places, such as Ronda, where the women have always been noted for their beauty. Some say the Spanish skin is the most perfect in Europe, and Gautier describes it as "a golden pallor," but unfortunately the Andalusian girl is very anxious to hide its fine texture under a coating of powder. Weather seems to have little effect on it, for it neither freckles nor discolors.

Ready Hitting and Good All Around Playing Brings Victory

Playing in old time form the Christians Thursday night won the game from the Washington Avenues by the score of 8 to 2. The game was truly won, although erors contributed to the size of the score.

Not permitting the Washington Avenues to get within sight of home plate until the fourth inning the Christians dutifully scored one in the first, four in the second and one in the third. The four in the second inning were pulled around through an error, a sacrifice hit and three bingles, one of which stood for two sacks. Vernom made a homer in the third.

Carmell got a walk stole second and scored on Mitchell's single, in the fourth for the Washington Avenues. Mitchel stole second and after going third on a poke to left, came home on a sacrifice fly.

Two hits were responsible together with a hit by pitcher for getting the Christians a run in the fifth. On a base on balls and a three bagger they got one in the seventh. Score:

OT CAMPAIGN PROMISED FOR DISTRICT ATTORNEY

umber of Younger Attorneys to Enter Fight

CHESON MAY BE IN RACE

resent Incumbent Said to be Extremely Willing to Get Back Old Job

Intelligence from the county seat is to the effect that there will be a hot fight for the Republican nomination for district attorney. Several of the younger attorneys are said to be aspirants, and it is possible that the present incumbent, C. L. V. Acheson, may seek re-nomination. In that case there will be some hot campaigning, as it is said that Mr. Acheson's candidacy will induce others to make the run.

Among the first candidates to declare their intention of making the race were Richard G. Miller and Ralph Allison. Both have strong party claims. Miller has served as Republican county chairman, while Allison last fall worked day and night for the success of the Republican ticket when active workers were few and far between at the county seat.

Now the announcement is made that District Attorney C. L. V. Acheson will stand for re-nomination. This, it is said will bring out another candidate, in the person of T. H. W. Fergus, who is assistant to Mr. Acheson. While it has not been practiced, it has been desired to have the office of district attorney passed along after one term, in order to give young attorneys a chance. For this reason the position of assistant district attorney was supposed to be a stepping stone for the nomination after the incumbent had served one term. This procedure, however, is not likely to follow this time, as with an open field any candidate has an opportunity to secure the nomination.

The Keystone following, which led in the vote for Governor in the county last year, is "laying low." It is charged that certain elements in the Republican party have effected a combination, and it will depend on how much of this state is nominated whether or not the Keystone party wil be reorganized. If a fair proportion of the independent Republican candidates win ,the Keystone element may not take a hand; but if the alleged slate wins it is asserted that a fusion will be effected with the Democrats for the fight at the November election.

Epworth League Decides Important Matter in Closing Session

LOCAL DELEGATES RETURN

Local delegates have returned from the annual convention of the Washington county district of the Epworth League at Wellsburg, W. Va., and report a remarkably good session. The next convention will be held at Bentleyville. Last year when the convention was held in Charleroi, Bentleyville contested with Wellsburg to get the convention. J. C. Mace of Wellsburg, was elected the next district president. Local delegates to the convention were Misses Ora Kistler, Florence Crill, Winifred Martin, and Vida Goehring and Samuel Cheshure. Miss Crill is remaining in Wellsburg for a few days to visit Rev. and Mrs. A. M. Doak, formerly of Charleroi.

GIRL IS AIDED BY COMMITTEE

Erma Johnson, a 16-year-old girl from Fayette City, was arrested by Chief of Police Albright Thursday evening and at the instance of the local Juvenile Court committee was taken to the detention room at Washington. The girl, who was working in town as a domestic, was charged with immoral conduct, to which she confessed. The Juvenile Court committee did not want to keep her in the lockup over night, and so engaged Constable Stablein to take her over to Washington late last night. As soon as the arrest was made commitment papers were made out and in less than two hours the constable was on his way to Washington with the girl, who will likely be committed by the court to the industrial training school at Morganza or some other institution. Her case was one of the most degrading ones of the kind that has come to the notice of the officials.

Information received this morning from an apparently authentic source was to the effect that the strike of shopmen along the Monongahela division P. R. SNUG SUM FOR BENEFIT

Affair Wednesday at Baseball Park Brings in Large Amount

Indications are that a snug sum will be realized for the Charleroi playgrounds as a result of the benefit Wednesday evening at the local baseball park, according to a statement made this morning by a member of the playgrounds committee. The playground will be fitted up next week, the opening being planned for Tuesday, June 20.

While the benefit Wednesday occasioned some surprise, it nevertheless answered the purpose. The Bloomer Girls were widely advertised to appear and play a local picked baseball team, but when they arrived it was found that the "girls" was nothing more than local young men attired in burlesque. An immense crowd was present.

W. A. Swick, a member of the High School faculty has been elected as instructor at the playgrounds and James Evans has been chosen by the committee to care for the grounds. There is considerable equipment owned, having been purchased previous to this year.

The playgrounds will be situated in the "Pines" and may be made a permanent institution. Council has appropriated $300 to be used in their maintenance, $100 of which was voted to be used as soon as desired. It is expected the school board will donate a similar sum. With other sums in the hands of the treasurer derived from benefits and other sources, Charleroi children are promised a playground worth while.

TELEPHONE IN USE ON THE P. & L. E.

Telegraph Supplanted by New System Between McKeesport and Brownsville

The Pittsburg and Lake Erie Railroad will soon be using the telephone instead of the telegraph for dispatching trains on two of its divisions extending from McKeesport to Brownsville, 40 miles, and from McKeesport to Connellsville, 43 miles. The dispatcher for both these circuits will be been placed with the Western Electric company for 15 selectors and the located at McKeesport. An order has necessary telephones and auxiliary apparatus to equip these circuits.

The telephone method of handling train movements has been found just as safe and efficient as the telegraph, and much quicker. It is now being used on nearly 50,000 miles of railroad which once used the telegraph exclusively for this service.

ONLY ONE WAY.

In reply to a recent editorial in the Mail making a few comments on the general principals of Socialism as popularly understood as a political party organization, a writer in this issue takes exceptions to the comment, and propounds a few questions. Taking the ground—which is a mistken one, and not borne out by actual conditions that the individual has na opportunities—he says:

"What incentive for thrift has the 600,000 coal miners of this nation? Can they expect to own a mine? What incentive for thrift has the 2,000,000 who labor an the railroads? Can they expect to own a railway? What incentive for thrift has the 5,000,000 who work in our mills and factories; the 2,000,000 farmers who own no farms?* * *I ask what incentive for thrift has these millions got who cannot escape their slavery individually."

Without entering into a general discusion of the subject which time and space prevents, we will say that while a railway employe may not expect to own a railway, it is possible for him to own what any one else does in these institutions—stocks and bonds, as ro thousands of employes of the Pennsylvania, the New York Central and other strong systems. Thousands of employes can and do invest their savings in the railways and big industrial concerns in which they work, mines as well as mills, and draw their dividends the same in proportion as the largest stockholders. Their pro rata depends entirely upon their thrift their self denial and the sacrifices they are willing to make, which is the basis of all material wealth and capital.

So far as individual slavery is concerned, this is largely a matter of [illegible] was a time [illegible] since the foundation of the world when expert, capable and efficient workmen were so much in demand, nor so hard to get. In this coal mining district there are times when there are not enough capable mine and fire bosses and superintendents—men who have developed their possible technical skill and combined it with the mental qualifications of executive ability and intelligent direction. In the big mills experts are always in demand—bosses who can produce and superintendents and heads of departments. In these days of free schools and opportunities for self-improvement, every young man who starts out in life dependent upon his own resources has the world at his command. It is up to him to take advantage of the opportunities which knock at every door—if he but will. There are plenty of examples on every hand—John H. and David Jones, of the Pittsburg-Buffalo Coal company who yielded pick and shovel themselves, and George Nash of the Pittsburg Steel company at Monessen, graduate of the cinder pile and the school of hard knocks.

Capital is self-sacrifice, and all capital employed in every business concern big, or little is money earned and saved through self-sacrifice and not spent for the ephemeral pleasures of the day. The man who does not limit his productive capacities, but denies himself and saves his earnings, accumulates capital that will eventually bring him independence and a competence. This is possible for the great majority of people if they but choose. If they choose otherwise, effect follows cause as inevitably as the night the day. Until every individual can realize these principles of social economy and put them into practice, Socialism as preached by the present propaganda must remain a chimerical dream. There is but one way to produce capital, and there is no copyright or patent on the process.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

It is related of one of the Charleroi Church League pitchers that one time he went over to Belle Vernon to pitch a game for a team in that town. When the first man up to bat faced the pitcher the catcher signaled for a high fast ball, but the twirler shook his head. A signal was given for an out curve but this, too, was negatived. The catcher then signaled for an inshoot, but the king of the mound most positively shook his head. A signal for a drop met with the same response

"For the Lord's sake!" exclaimed the umpire, who stood behind the pitcher, and was an interested spectator of the various signals, "how many kind of balls do you have at your command?"

"I've got more curves," the pitcher retorted, "than the catcher has fingers to signal with."

A Charleroi student, who is attending a Pittsburg institution of learning, tells how one of his classmates was translating in a German recitation a few days ago. The subject was a narrative about a young conscript bidding his family and sweetheart adieu previous to departing for the wars. The boy in the class had stumbled through the lesson more or less laborously. Finally he drawled out, picking his words carefully in making the translation:

"I put my arms around her"—and then stopped suddenly.

"That's as far as I got, Professor," said the boy, meaning in his translation.

"I think that was far enough," replied the professor with a smile, much to the student's confusion.

THE PROPAGANDS OF SOCIALISTS

Leroy R. Bruce Writes Concerning Policies of Party

To the Editor of the Charleroi Mail:

Sir—My attention was called to an editorial in your paper in the issue of Saturday, May 27, 1911 entitled Socialism. Being a student of the philosophy of socialism I was somewhat surprised as to what your conception of socialism was. But my understanding of socialism being entirely different from yours and to get a better understanding as to the source from which you have gained your knowledge of socialism, I beg to ask you a few questions:

Is the rank and file or the Socialist Party made up of those on whom the ills and misfortunes of life press heavily? I answer in the negative. Let us see. According to data collected by the National Secretary of the Socialist party its membership is made up of those who work at the following occupations: Craftsman, 41 per cent; laborers, 20 per cent; farmers, 17 per cent; commerce 9 per cent; transportation 5 per cent; professional 5 per cent; housewives 3 per cent. Now I want to ask you is the membership of the Republican or Democrat parties made up any less of those on whom the ills and misfortunes of life press heavily?

Yes, Socialism is a message of freedom to those thousands who toil hopelessly for others with no pleasure in the present or hope in the future. As in their collective capacity they would own the means by which they live, for socialism in a concrete definitation simply means the public ownership of all the means of production and distribution that are socially used to be democratically managed. No less a personage than Shakespeare understood it in his day when he said: "He who owns the means by which I live owns me." Can this truthfully be denied today?

Again may I ask, what tenet of Socialism has a tendency to maintain a dead level? Has Uncle Sam reduced everybody to a dead level on the Panama canal? Is all the children in our public schools reduced to a dead level? As far as our public schools are concerned they have equal opportunity of acquiring an education which does not make them equal or reduce them to a dead level. And surely the incentive to learn is not destroyed because our schools are publically owned. Neither will social ownership of the land and machinery that is socially used and essential to the welfare of society with an equal opportunity for all to use same maintain a dead level. Private ownership of these same things has reduced thousands, yes, millions, to a dead [illegible] what incentive for thrift has the 600,000 coal miners of this nation who toil in inky darkness producing a commodity which without it we are thrown back into the laborious poverty of early times, receiving hardly a subsistence wage for doing same? Can they expecvt to own a mine? What incentive for thrift has the 2,000,000 who labor on the railroads of this nation? Can they expect to own a railroad? What incentive for thrift has the 5,000,000 who work in our mills and factories; the 2,000,000 farmers who own no farms; thousands who work in the big department stores and mail order houses; 4,000,000 who are out of work; no less than 300,000 of our girls who are forced to sell their virtue for bread? Yes, I ask what incentive for thrift has these millions got who cannot escape their slavery individually. Will socialism destroy these millions of our people's incentive for thrift when it will make them masters of their own destiny by freeing them from their economic servitude?

Yes the only hope fo these millions of toilers is for them to collectively own the tools and machinery they use then they can produce wealth in abundance for themselves and not for a few bond holders and coupon clippers.

About the only incentive there is in this day of big trusts is to be a flunkey for the corporations which I am glad to say is getting very distasteful to those who love honesty and some liberty. Socialism is not against private property that is privately used such as your home or automobile, clothes, or your tooth brush. In fact, it will make it possible for millions to privately own their homes for the first time as only 26 per cent of the people own their homes in this State. Socialism is no dream, no Utopia, but a science that teaches of all the phases of human life. You should study it even to fight it if you are opposed to it. But erecting a straw man, labeling it socialism then proceeding to tear it to pieces will not destroy it.

Respectfully,
LEROY R. BRUCE.

[illegible], Pa., June 6, 1911.

PETER PINDAR'S RUSE.

It Enabled the Astute Author to Drive a Good Bargain.

Some time about the beginning of the nineteenth century Peter Pindar (Dr. John Wolcott) drove a good bargain with the publishers, Robinson & Walker. While negotiations were under way the author developed an attack of asthma, which was always at its most distressing stage whenever the publishers were present. He was only fifty-seven then, but the publishers decided that their chances were good and agreed to pay him a annuity of £250 instead of a lump sum for his work.

Soon after the bond was signed the doctor went to Cornwall, where he recovered his health, and returned to London without any cough, which was far from being a pleasing sight to the persons who had to pay his annuity. One day he called upon Mr. Walker, the manager for the parties, who, surveying him with a scrutinizing eye, asked him how he did. "Much better, thank you," said Wolcott. "I have taken the measure of my asthma; the fellow is troublesome, but I know his strength and can lick him." "Oh!" said Mr. Walker gravely, and turned into an adjoining room, where Mrs. Walker, a prudent woman, had been listening to the conversation. Wolcott, aware of the feeling, paid a keen attention to the husband and wife and heard the latter exclaim: "There, now, didn't I tell you he wouldn't die? Fool that you're been! I knew he wouldn't die."

Peter Pindar survived both the partners.—New York Post.

Spider Thread Clothes.

In the thread of the spider lies dormant a great industry once it is properly studied. Numerous attempts have been made to utilize the threads for cloth to make clothes, etc. All have been so far doomed to failure—anyhow, as a financial proposition. It is related that Louis XIV. had a dress made from spider's web which was so fragile that he became disgusted with it. The entomologist D'Orbigny had made for himself a pair of trousers from the webs of tropical spiders, which lasted for a long time.—Popular Magazine.

When Coffee Was Unpopular.

Coffee was introduced into England in 1652 and within the next ten years became the fashionable drink of London. A few years later, however, in 1663, there was a great uprising against the "oriental beverage of hades." It was satirized on every hand, the bitterest invectives coming from the pulpit. One leading minister characterized it as "the sirup of soot mixed with the essence of old shoes," and another declared that it was "a potion which God had made black that it might bear the devil's own color." This bitter crusade soon wore itself out, and by the time of Charles II. coffee houses were known in every village in the land.

Von Weber's Last Portrait.

A strange memorial of a famous man was among the possessions of George Augustus Sala. He tells of it in "My Life and Adventures":

My mother, prior to her widowhood had known Von Weber during his visit to London in 1826. He was a frequent visitor to our house in New street, and I have a water color drawing of the illustrious German composer in a gray dressing gown, sitting in a large pink and white striped covered fauteuil, his head sunk on his breast and looking desperately ill. Beneath is the inscription, "Alas, poor Karl Maria!" The great musician died, indeed, in London of consumption on the 5th of June in the year named.

The Premier Perfume.

Most of our perfumes come from flowers or are made in imitation of the scent of flowers, so that attar of roses, by common consent, ranks at the head of the list of perfumes. Other preparations from roses, too, hold a high place and have long been esteemed. Rosewater is historic. When Saladin entered Jerusalem in the twelfth century he had the walls of the mosque of Omar washed with it. But attar of all of roses is by far the most precious and the most prized of all. An eastern prince will present to an honored guest rich jewels, rubies and diamonds and then, as the crowning act of all, a crystal bottle filled with this essence.

Over-Worked Girls

Read What This Girl Says:

Appleton, Wis.—"I take pleasure in writing you an account of my sickness. I told a friend of mine how I felt and she said I had female trouble and advised me to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as she had taken it herself for the same trouble with wonderful results. I had been sickly for two years and overworked myself, and had such bad feelings every month that I could hardly walk for pain. I was very nervous and easily tired out and could not sleep nights. I had dizzy spells, and pimples came on my face. But I have taken your Vegetable Compound and I am entirely cured. I think it is the best medicine in existence."—Miss Cecilia M. Bauer, 1161 Lawrence St., Appleton, Wis.

THIS GIRL SAYS IT IS WOMAN'S BEST FRIEND:

Chicago, Ill.—"Your Compound cured all my troubles and I am feeling strong and happy and able to work now. Wherever I go I shall praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as I think it is woman's best friend. I have told all my friends the good it has done me."—Miss Maggie Isbauer, 2418 So. Whipple Street, Chicago, Illinois.

Lorimor, Iowa.—"I had a heavy cold in the spring and got all run down and was irregular. I had no strength and had bearing down pains in my sides and back, and was very nervous and excitable. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I am all right again, and stronger than before."—Miss I. E. Williams, Lorimor, Iowa.

Is it not reasonable to suppose that a medicine that did so much for these girls will benefit any other girl who is suffering with the same troubles?

Does it not seem the only sensible thing to give such a medicine at least a trial? You may be sure that it can do you no harm, and there is lots of proof that it will do you much good.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health free of charge. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

They Were Used In Palestine as Early as the Year 800 B. C.

Professor George A. Reisner of Harvard university discovered among some specimens of earliest Hebrew writing in the excavations of the city of Samaria, in Palestine, a most interesting record of the first pure food laws in history. He also found ancient writings dealing with the first instance on record of the keeping of wines in a government warehouse under bond.

Dating back to the period of King Ahab, 850 B. C., these inscriptions are considered to be one of the greatest finds of the Harvard Palestinian expeditions which delved into the city of Ahab and Omri for three years. They found labels on wine and oil jars. These mention the year in which the wine was laid down in the cellars of the palace storehouse, and they state the vineyard from which the wine came, important facts that are recognized equally well by vintners today.

On the oil jars the label runs, "A jar of pure oil," with the mention of the district from which the oil came. The bits of pottery on which the inscriptions were written were not parts of the jars, but were evidently intended to be attached to the necks of the receptacles, just as are labels or seals at the present time.—New York World.

WOOL, SILK AND LINEN.

Tests That Will Determine the Quality of the Fabrics.

If you wish to find out whether the material sold to you as all wool or all silk is really so make a 5 per cent solution of caustic potash and in this boil your sample of silk or wool. If the entire sample is consumed in t boiling your material is what it p tends to be: if there is a residue tl residue is cotton. The caustic soluti consumes the animal fibers.

If you wish to find out whether the silk that seems to be heavy silk is weighted with mineral burn the sample and the ash will show you how much mineral weighting there is. The pure silk will be wholly consumed.

In buying supposed linen goods of toweling or suiting, dip your sample into concentrated sulphuric acid for two minutes and wash it out carefully. The cotton will have been consumed, the linen will have resisted the action of the acid. This test is one that should be made with precaution, as vitriol is not a thing to be tampered with.—Mary Henton Vorse in Success Magazine.

Right and Wrong Exercise.

The word "exercise" covers a multitude of sins. It is a very loose term used for any form of physical exertion, be it sweeping out a factory, walking home from the office or lifting dumbbells. To say "Exercise is beneficial" is a very inaccurate remark and a very dangerous belief. It is necessary to distinguish between right and wrong exercise. As often as not big muscles in arms, chest or legs are a calamity, for they actually shorten life unless the vital organs are proportionately developed to take care of them. Men are constantly wearing out their hearts and arteries with some form of violent work they call "exercise." If continued they would die of arteriosclerosis. A pretty good general rule for these men to go by is to take no form of exercise after they are grown up that they cannot keep on with until they are old men.—J. Edmund Thompson in National Magazine.

Byron In an Ugly Mood.

I have not yet read Byron's "Conversations," but there was an anecdote in one of the extracts which confirms what I heard long since, but which I could not depend on before. He had an aversion to see women eat. Colonel — was at Byron's house in Piccadilly. Lady Byron in the room, and luncheon was brought in—veal cutlets, etc. She began eating. Byron turned around in disgust and said, "Germandizing beast!" and, taking up the tray, threw the whole luncheon into the hall. Lady Byron cried and left the room.—Told by Haydon, the Painter.

Surgery. "Painless Charity."

The surgery of a not remote past was radically different from the practice of today and fell little short of actual torture of the patient. Buroing the severed veins with hot irons to stop bleeding, opening gaping wounds wider to promote long continued suppuration, inserting tents and compresses between the gaping lips of wounds to prevent healing by first intention, filling gunshot wounds with boiling oil, etc., to counteract the supposed poisonous character of missiles propelled by gunpowder—with a host of salves, ointments and similar medicaments, it was not until late in the nineteenth century that military surgery became the soothing, beneficent, almost painless charity of today.—National Magazine.

Early Roman Laws.

The very earliest Roman laws were those contained in the so called "Papirian code," but of these but little is known. The next in order are those of the twelve tablets, compiled by the Decemvirs at the beginning of the fourth century of the city's history, about B. C. 350. These famous laws consisted of a revision of the then existing laws, with some new ones which, according to tradition, had been imported from Greece by three commissioners who had been sent to Athens for the purpose of collecting such laws and customs as might be useful to the people of Rome. The new code, when completed, was engraved on twelve tablets of ivory or brass and set up in public.

A Joke and a Law.

Tradition is that the habeas corpus act was put on the English statute books as the outcome of a joke at the expense of a bulky lord. It was in the final division in the house of lords, and Lord Grey and Lord Norris were appointed tellers. Lord Norris was not attentive to his duties, and when a very fat lord came in Lord Grey counted the obese person for ten, at first as a joke; but, seeing Lord Norris had not observed, the other noble lord went on with the miscount. By that means, says Bishop Burnet, a sufficient number of votes was secured, and the bill was passed. Long afterward the American colonists took over the act from England.

Fun Under Fire.

"One of the characteristics of my old comrade, Amos Stillman, Company A, Twenty-third Massachusetts volunteers, was bravery in actual fighting service," said the old soldier. "Another characteristic was a sense of humor which stood him in good stead even in the face of danger and contributed not a little to the gayety of his comrades. At the battle of Cold Harbor, just before making the charge and while under the Confederate fire, our corporal, who was over six feet tall and scarcely bigger round than a gun barrel, became excited as the enemy's bullets plowed up the earth about him.

"'What kind of place is this to keep a man in?' he demanded. 'Absolutely without protection!'

"He had no more than spoken when Private Stillman stuck his ramrod in the ground.

"'Here, corporal,' said he; 'get behind this.'"—Youth's Companion.

Twist of the Pretzel.

The pretzel is capable of infinite possibilities in the matter of shape. It shows almost as many forms as do the leaves of trees. The construction of the pretzel may be not inaptly described in sailor terms. Its peculiar shape is attained in this way: A bight is taken in a roll of dough, and the ends are given a half twist and brought back upon the opposite sides of the bight. This process gives to the pretzel a heart shaped appearance, but no one ever ventured to hint that any sentimental reason existed for assigning this shape to such a prosaic thing as a pretzel. When the pretzel has been duly "varnished" it is subjected to a process of salting, and the thing is complete.—Harper's.

Local Firm Will Continue Valuable Agency.

Piper Bros of this city have just closed a deal whereby they will continue to be agents for Zemo—the well known remedy for Eczema, Dandruff, and all diseases of the skin and scalp.

They have a limited supply of samples one of which will be given free to any skin sufferer who wishes to test the merit of the medicine. A booklet 'How To Preserve The Skin,' will also be given to those interested

A Game of Catch.

Somebody once twitted John Graham on the way David Dudley Field and he were drifting apart, he remaining in the harness as a criminal lawyer, while Field was selected by his state for the exalted duty of codifying her laws.

"It is simply a game of catch between Field and myself," he answered. "He tries to put up as many bars as possible, all uniformly strong. Then I go around and try them and see how many weak ones I can find."

"Which beats, Mr. Graham?" he was asked.

"Oh, I think I do in the long run," he responded. "Field never succeeded in keeping me out as many times as I have succeeded in breaking in."

Two things in life that are hardest to find are a needle in a haystack and a self-made man who is dissatisfied with his job.—Philadelphia Record.

"So she is," was the quiet rejoinder, "and I'm his lordship's domestic chaplain."

The Secret Test.

"How," the president of the Fat Man's club was asked, "did you prevent fraud among your applicants for membership? Didn't some men try to get in that weren't up to the standard weight?"

"Yes," the portly officer replied, "but it was no use. Applications had to be presented in person at the Polk building, fifth floor. There was no elevator. The applicant climbed the five flights of stairs.

"At the top he met a man who asked, 'Were you looking for the Fat Man's club?'

"'Yes.'

"'The main office is on the first floor,' the man said. 'Your application is rejected. We receive no man who can climb five flights of stairs.'"—Youth's Companion.

Girls of Andalusia.

Andalusian girls are, as a rule, singularly graceful, with small hands and feet. Their complexions are pale with the exception of those who live by the sea or in mountain places, such as Ronda, where the women have always been noted for their beauty. Some say the Spanish skin is the most perfect in Europe, and Gautier describes it as "a golden pallor," but unfortunately the Andalusian girl is very anxious to hide its fine texture under a coating of powder. Weather seems to have little effect on it, for it neither freckles nor discolors.

CHRISTIANS WIN FROM WASHINGTON AVENUE HITTERS

Ready Hitting and Good All Around Playing Brings Victory

Playing in old time form the Christians Thursday night won the game from the Washington Avenues by the score of 8 to 2. The game was truly won, although errors contributed to the size of the score.

Not permitting the Washington Avenues to get within sight of home plate until the fourth inning the Christians ...scored one in the first, four in the second and one in the third. The four in the second inning were pulled around through an error, a sacrifice hit and three bingles, one of which stood for two sacks. Vernom made a homer in the third.

Carmell got a walk stole second and scored on Mitchell's single, in the fourth for the Washington Avenues. Mitchel stole second and after going third on a poke to left, came home on a sacrifice fly.

Two hits were responsible together with a hit by pitcher for getting the Christians a run in the fifth. On a base on balls and a three bagger they got one in the seventh. Score:

Vernom was chief run getter last night. He had three to his credit. He batted at 1000 per cent, too.

Jolliffe didn't very much want to pitch, but three hits off him for as many bases isn't so bad.

* * *

Bert Wilson the First Presbyterian's star first sacker, who has been attending school at Bellefonte will probably appear in their lineup Monday night.

Kearns seems to play a trifle better game catching than he does pitching.

We cannot help but say that Dunmire played a heap better game for the Christians than he ever did for the First Presbyterians.

Carmell made a bad mess of things in the sixth, with two slip-ups on affairs that looked easy.
